

Transform your business with G Suite

If your business is like most, you probably handle more files than you can efficiently manage. To compete in the modern digital world, you need a content-centric platform that provides file security and supports real-time collaboration. The G Suite platform does just that.

Google a Leader in Content Collaboration for Google Drive

Google was recognized as a Leader in the July 2017 Gartner Magic Quadrant for Content Collaboration Platforms.

Here are five ways G Suite can help transform your business.

01

Collaborate in real time

Amazing things happen when people work in teams. Decisions get made quickly. New solutions are discovered. With G Suite, coworkers across the globe can create and edit documents together—as if they were working next to each other.

“By 2020, 80% of large and midsize organizations in mature regions will have deployed one or more content collaboration platform products to implement a content productivity and collaboration strategy.”

—Gartner Magic Quadrant for Content Collaboration Platforms, Monica Basso, Karen A. Hobert, Michael Woodbridge, 25 July 2017*

02

Work on the go

People are mobile. They expect the same from their devices. When the web is your platform, you can work anywhere, on any device or operating system. Desktop, laptop, Chromebook, tablet, smartphone. Windows, Mac, Android, iOS. It just works.

03

Expect transparent pricing

One simple, no-nonsense pricing model for everyone. No long-term commitments. No extra fees for basics, like phone support or critical security features. The way it should be.

04

Give admins visibility and control

Admins need control of company data, especially as you transition to the cloud. With Vault, Data Loss Prevention for Drive and many auditing enhancements, you can meet data retention and compliance requirements and prevent dangerous data breaches.

05

Simplify migration

Google Cloud Partners will smooth your migration from on-premises solutions to the cloud. They bring the technical expertise and hands-on change management experience to help transform your business.
